GLENDALE, CA — The Glendale Association of REALTORS® (GAOR) is pleased to announce the appointment of Sevak Sohrabian as its permanent Chief Executive Officer, following a unanimous vote by the Board of Directors. This decision follows the recommendation of the CEO Selection Committee after a comprehensive, four-month nationwide search.

Sohrabian has served as Interim CEO for six months, following his appointment by the 2024 Board of Directors. In that role, he has exhibited strong leadership, strategic vision, and a deep dedication to advancing the association's mission and core values.

"The Board is confident in Sevak's vision and his ability to lead GAOR into its next chapter," said Eddie Minassian, 2025 President of the Glendale Association of REALTORS®. "His dedication to member service and organizational excellence stood out throughout the selection process, and we are excited to continue building on the momentum he's established."

With an extensive background in the real estate industry and an emphasis on management and organizational leadership, Sohrabian brings continuity and innovation to the role. Under his interim leadership, the Association has made strides in financial efficiencies and member engagement activities, streamlining operations, and preparing for long-term growth.

"I am honored to accept the CEO role permanently and grateful for the trust placed in me by the Board, the Selection Committee, and the members of this great Association," said Sohrabian. "It's a privilege to serve the REALTORS® of Glendale and to work alongside such a committed and forward-thinking team."

The Glendale Association of REALTORS® looks forward to a strong future under Sohrabian's leadership.
